* Mario Castrellón of Maito (No.6) in Panama City is presented with the Estrella Damm Chefs' Choice Award as voted by his Fellow Chefs

For the First Time since the List's Inception in 2013, Culinary Stars gathered in Rio de Janeiro at the Copacabana Palace to witness the 11th Annual Unveiling of Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants 2023, sponsored by S.Pellegrino & Acqua Panna. Establishments from 23 cCties across the Region were recognised before Mado – crowned The Best Restaurant in Latin America for Three Consecutive Years between 2017 and 2019 – reclaimed the No.1 Position atop the List as The Best Restaurant in Latin America 2023 and The Best Restaurant in Peru 2023.

Taking over the No.1 position, Mitsuharu 'Micha' Tsumura's Flagship Restaurant Mado masterfully fuses Japanese Techniques with Peruvian Ingredients to take Diners on an Immersive Experience through the Flavours and Traditions of his Two Countries. Tsumura's Seasonal and Inventive Nikkei Menus feature Dishes such as "Nigiri a lo Pobre", which consists of thinly sliced Angus Beef and Quail Egg injected with Ponzu, as well as other Bites served on Coral Rock or Edible Stones.

William Drew, Director of Content for Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants, says: "We are honoured and privileged to celebrate the Incredible Culinary Talent and Diversity showcased in this Year's Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants 2023 List. Mitsuharu Tsumura and the Entire Mado Team have consistently demonstrated their Dedication to elevating Local Ingredients through Inventive Dishes, a Visionary Wine List and Exceptional Hospitality, and we are delighted to recognise Mado as The Best Restaurant in Latin America, sponsored by S.Pellegrino & Acqua Panna. We extend our Congratulations to all the Establishments recognised this Year – as well as over the last 10 Years since the List's Inception – and look forward to witnessing the Region's Continued Growth and Success in the Years and Decades to come."

For the First Time, the Restaurant voted No.1 in Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants 2022 – Lima's Central – wasn't eligible for voting in the 2023 Edition of the Regional Ranking. Instead, Central will become the First Restaurant in Latin America to be elevated to the Best of the Best Hall of Fame after achieving the Coveted No.1 Ranking at The World's 50 Best Restaurants 2023. Those in the Elite Group of No.1 Ranked Restaurants at the Global Level, which now includes Central, are honoured as Iconic Dining Destinations and become Ineligible for voting in any Future Lists of The World's 50 Best Restaurants, as well as its Regional Rankings such as Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants.

The List of Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants 2023 displays the Rich Diversity and Culinary Cultures of the Region, highlighting an Array of Establishments from 23 Destinations. Buenos Aires and Lima cement their Positions as World-Class Gastronomic Destinations once again, leading with Eight Restaurants Each on the List. Named The Best Restaurant in Argentina 2023, Don Julio lands on the List at No.3, while other Notable Additions to the Argentinian Capital include New Entries Alo's (No.38) and Niño Gordo (No.43) as well as Crizia, which re-enters the List at No.41. Lima boasts one new Entry in Cosme (No.50) and one Re-Entry in La Mar (No.42). São Paulo and Mexico City follow closely with Five Entries each, including A Casa do Porco (No.4), which is named The Best Restaurant in Brazil 2023, and Fauna (No.5) in Valle de Guadalupe, which is named The Best Restaurant in Mexico 2023. La Docena (Polanco) in Mexico City also re-enters the List at No.48. With its Historic No.2 Position, El Chato achieves the Highest-Ever Ranking for a Colombian Restaurant.

As the Region's Gastronomic Landscape continues to evolve, eight New Restaurants make their Debut on the List. Restaurants from Medellín and San José enter the Ranking for the First Time with X.O. (No.27) and Sikwa (No.47), respectively. Other debuting Establishments include Humo Negro (No.44) in Bogotá, Mercado 24 (No.49) in Guatemala City, and Cantina del Tigre, which enters the List at No.25 to earn the Highest New Entry Award, sponsored by Aspire Lifestyles.

Stefano Bolognese, Sanpellegrino International Business Unit Director, says: "Our Deepest Congratulations to all the Restaurants who earned a Place in this Year's Edition of Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants. The Commitment, Expertise and Love they've brought to their Work, and to the Industry, is Overwhelming and Inspiring. We are really Proud to have contributed to turning the Spotlight on these Culinary Talents and Restaurants which are all Worthy of Recognition."

The Celebration at the Ceremony of Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants 2023 continued with Seven Special Award Announcements. The Gin Mare Art of Hospitality Award is presented to Pangea (No.29) in Monterrey, where Chef Guillermo González Beristáin melds French Techniques with the Produce of Northeast Mexico, paired with an Expansive Wine List in an Elegant, Contemporary Setting.

- The Voting Process

The 50 Best Organisation's Role in promoting Restaurants and showcasing Culinary Talent remains more Important than ever, continuing to support the Hospitality Sector by inspiring Diners to seek out Exciting Gastronomic Experiences. 50 Best works with Professional Services Consultancy Deloitte as its Official Independent Adjudication Partner to help protect the Integrity and Authenticity of the Voting Process and the Resulting List of Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants 2023.

The Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants Academy is comprised of more than 300 Regional Voting Members, each of whom is Hand-Picked for their Expert Opinion of the Latin American Restaurant Scene. The Votes of this Academy make up the Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants List, an Annual Barometer of Taste. The Academy is divided into Five Regions: Mexico, Central America, South America (North), South America (South) and Brazil. Each Region includes Expert Voters made up of Journalists, Food Critics, Chefs, Restaurateurs and Well-Travelled Gourmets. In 2023, each Member submitted 10 Votes for what they considered their Best Dining Experiences of the Previous 18 Months – at least four of those Votes went to Restaurants outside their Own Country (Academy Members unable to travel Internationally voted Only for Six Restaurants in their Own Country).
